Identity Theft...Deter, Detect, Defend

Name of author: V. Renee Dotson

Name of Institution: University of Georgia Cooperative Extension

Key words: Identity Theft, Fraud, Economic Wellbeing

Text:

In 2008 alone the Federal Trade Commission assisted more than 300,000 people nation wide on identity theft complaints. More than 10,000 complaints came from Georgia. Identity theft occurs when someone uses your personal identifying information, like you name, Social Security number, or credit card number, without your permission, to commit fraud or other crimes. The "Identity Theft ...Deter, Detect, Defend" poster provides information on why the topic of identity theft is of concern, a description of the programs provided, contact information for resources and the impact the program, exhibits, and news articles had.
